

I travel quite a bit and the thought of the person sitting next to me talking on the phone throughout the trip is awful. We are packed in there tight enough without that annoyance. Plus, I still haven't been truly convinced this will not be a risk to flight communications.